Community

- Gandhi Brigade Youth Media - Board of Directors: Gandhi Brigade Youth Media is a pioneering afterschool program that empowers young people in the Washington, DC region to use multimedia as tools to promote community building, multicultural understanding and the common good. We offer young people the opportunity to use the media arts as a developmental path for personal and community growth. First, we teach students how to create effective media messages. Second, we invite them to investigate the world around them. Third, we create opportunities for them to apply these new skills and abilities toward practical projects that foster dialogue and understanding. (from website)
