

Howard University Research Week

Tuesday, April 10th

KEYNOTE SPEAKER HAKEEM OLUSEYI, PH.D.

1:00PM-2:00PM

Multipurpose Room, Interdisciplinary Research Building

Dr. Oluseyi serves as an Astrophysicist and the Space Sciences Education Lead for the Science Mission Directorate at NASA Headquarters. He also holds the title of Distinguished Research Professor of Physics & Space Sciences at the Florida Institute of Technology. He's authored more than 70 scholarly articles, six books, and is the inventor of seven US patents and four EU patents.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY FACULTY EXPLORING NEW FRONTIERS

2:15PM-3:30PM

Multipurpose Room, Interdisciplinary Research Building

(IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING KEYNOTE)

Jennifer Thomas, M.A.

Assistant Professor, Media, Journalism and Film
The Cathy Hughes School of Communications

Fake it Till You Make It? Journalistic Pedagogy and Practice in the Era of Trump

Paul Wang, Ph.D.

Professor, Radiology
College of Medicine

*MOLECULAR IMAGING –
Introduction of Howard University
Imaging Core Facility*

Thomas A. Mellman, M.D.

Professor, Psychiatry & Behavioral Sciences
Director, GHUCCTS
College of Medicine

In-Home Real Time Monitoring for Personalized Intervention to Enhance Sleep Health

Thomas Heinbockel, Ph.D.

Associate Professor, Anatomy
College of Medicine

*How Nerve Cells Listen and Talk
Back*

Ofosuwa Abiola, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor, Theatre Arts
College of Arts & Sciences

The Africana Theatre and Dance Collection

Thomas Searles, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor, Physics &
Astronomy
College of Arts & Sciences